

Module Four – Intro to Personalising the Student Experience

Welcome back to the final module.

In Module 3 we explored the idea of creating a community within your Centre. Before we finish, I would like to get you thinking about personalizing the student experience. Don't worry, this isn't as narcissistic as it may sound, and it doesn't serve to take away the community experience, simply to complement it and for students to feel that their interests are heard and are being met.
